The Size of the image you upload is listed just below the file name. You can see all uploaded images by clicking on the [Source Images] button in the upper left of the overlay.

To format a new image for use in the studio, select a size from the drop-down menu and click on the image itself.

Note – To select images already set for to 640x350 image size for a player, click on the [Player 640X360] button.

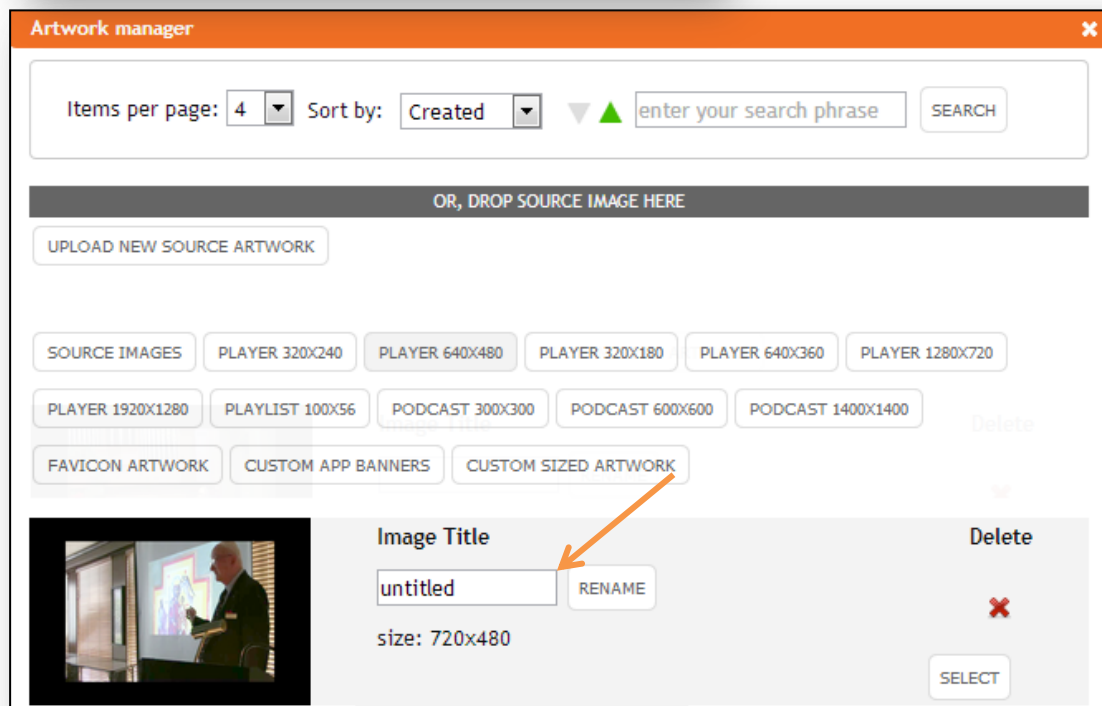

To format a new image for use in the players, click on the image itself.

Now use the area selector to select the portion of the original image you would like displayed and click the [Create] button.

Since you have now created a new image, you might want to rename this one as well.

Finally, click on the image again to set it as the artwork for your episode (podcast and media center artwork works the same).
